- Vilfredo Pareto (1848-1923) was an Italian economist who, in 1906, observed that twenty percent of the Italian people owned eighty percent of their country's accumulated wealth. Over time and through application in a variety of environments, this analytic has come to be called Pareto's Principle, the 18-20 Rule. Pareto's rule states that a small number of causes is responsible for a large percentage of effect, in a ratio about 20:80. In a management context, 20% of a person's effort generates 80% of the person's results. The corollary to this is that 20% of one's results absorb 80% of one's resources or efforts. The challenge to an effective professional is to distinguish the right 20% from the trivial many. To maximize personal productivity, one must realize that 80% of group discussions, pair discussions and individually, assessment also operates at the individual level, in peers and groups. This will help the learners to compare their strengths and weaknesses and make modifications in their learning. We propose Continuous and Comprehensive Assessment at the levels of language learning. CCE is an attempt to shift from remote learning to constructing knowledge and applying it as when required. CCE is an ongoing process and is an integral part of the lesson. At every point of classroom learning, we will have to assess what the child has learned for which the same activities that are used for teaching/learning are used. The questions in the examination paper shall not simply be based on information given in the textbooks but shall create slots for the learner to use language in a meaningful way applying what he/she has learnt. So mugging up by the student will not be of any use to him/her.
